History and Tradition

Founded in Cambridge in 1984, PLUSFILE was born of the great tradition of the place. For over 30 years, PLUSFILE has been publishing diaries and notelets, following Cambridge's long history of printing and writing.

It dates back in 1534, when the Cambridge University Press was founded as the first publishing and printing company, providing quality paper and notebooks for some of the greatest minds in the world.

As a result PLUSFILE is inspired by the greatest thinkers and the most ardent writers of Cambridge, among them Stephen Hawking, Issac Newton, and William Wordsworth. Today, PLUSFILE continues to spread the virtues of writing – from Cambridge to the world.

The Value of a Notebook

When newness is not as exciting as before and cut-copy is replacing originality, PLUSFILE believes even more firmly in providing a reliable counterpart to the new and capricious technology of today.

Following the traditions of Cambridge, we feel that we have a part to revive an extraordinary tradition, or at least to write just like yesterday.

PLUSFILE has always been the tablet that allows you to write freely and think creatively, a device that permanently saves and protects your precious words and drawings, a system that holds invaluable notes, theories, and ideas that would one day lead to the theory of relativity, or the study of evolution on the Galapagos Islands....and most importantly – a canvas of endless possibilities.

Einstein Collection

Enduring Traditions

The classic and purest form
of notebooks

Just as Albert Einstein's theory of relativity stands as one of the most enduring scientific theories of the 20th century, Einstein Collection is the timeless companion in any and every writing situation.

105AD Collection

Contemporary Elegance, Sophisticated Expressions

Embodying Culture, Travel, History and Personal Wonders

It all started in 105AD in China, when paper was made with inner bark of bulberry tree, bamboo, and water, a product of great craftsmanship. Today, 105 AD Collection inherits the unique craft, continuing traditions from centuries and dynasties ago.

105AD

Contemporary Elegance, Sophisticated Expressions

Developed entirely by hand, each paper is selected and sourced from the mulberry trees in the historic papermaking region in China. Bound together in a luxurious leather cover, the especially elegant notebook develops a beautiful patina over time and demonstrates just how history and writing can be married in the most graceful way.

Paper Features:

416 pages

Thread sewn book block

Like a great piece of literature, 105AD Notebook is long lasting and enduring. Each handmade mulberry paper is made to last for hundreds of years. Up to 416 pages, the notebook records and preserves all the words, and writings, stories and memories. It is truly a beautiful gift to give and lifelong treasure to own.
